5 Ways to say 'I Love You'

We believe that we were created by a loving God, so it is only natural that children need to feel loved in order to best develop and succeed. But if you and your child speak different love languages, your display of love might get lost in translation. In order to help you communicate "I Love You" effectively with your child we have developed this simple activity, based on Gary Chapman's 5 love languages, as a way to empower your home through building authentic relationships.

10 Things I love about you

The power of words is an unbelievable thing. They cultivate a range of emotions. Words can inspire, encourage, devastate, uplift, tear down and ultimately change the direction of a child or spouse's day, week, and in some rare instances, their life. Be purposely intentional by taking just ten minutes each day to make a profound difference for one you love by communicating 'I love you'.

Child's Commitment Ceremony

Research indicates that between the ages of 5 and 12, lifelong habits, values, beliefs and attitudes are formed and that at this age the brain is the most receptive to spirituality. Children at this age are generally discouraged from being baptised into the church, as some consider them to be too young. However, when faith is not affirmed, children are left feeling unsupported or valued. We need to show them that we take their commitment seriously and that we will be beside them in their faith journey. It is for this reason that the concept of a commitment ceremony has been developed by the Children's Ministry Department of the Seventh-day Adventist church.

Faithshaper Resources

Making lifelong disciples of children and youth is a key priority of our church. We believe that it is time to have the important discussions on what formational experiences they need. In partnership with the Interdenominational National conversation here2stay, South Pacific Division and Australian Conferences Children's Ministries have put together 7 Essential Experiences that will shape this faith that stays. We want this faith to be deep, and it needs to be strong and active.

This is not a program. It doesn't sit with one department. It doesn't sit with one age group. 'Faith Shaper' is a set of experiences from birth to eighteen years that should determine how all Departments do ministry. We are asking that everyone – church, home and school, to study the experiences and put in place strategies that ensure they happen well. We believe that collaboratively we CAN achieve this. We can reverse the flow. We CAN produce lifelong disciples for Jesus.

Faith Shaper Intro Booklet

This A5 booklet introduces Faith Shaper, the research and how important these 7 essential experiences are to your children and your church in a informative manner. A really good way to introduce Faith Shaper to your church pastor, leaders, families and members.

To help you generate discussion with your kids around some of our church traditions we have developed a series of A5 printouts that can be inserted in your church bulletin when there is a dedication, baptism or communion happening in your church.

We can trust the Bible

Written by Tim Hale, We Can Trust the Bible tells exactly why we can trust the bible. Tracing the story of how Moses received a table of stone on which God had written the Ten Commandments, the prophets that had dreams and visions, and the Holy Spirit that taught and inspired the disciples.

It also shows how God preserved His Word through the darkness and persecution of the Middle Ages, and the struggle to give the Bible to the people in languages they could understand. Finally, we see how the Puritans brought the Bible to America and how archaeology proves the ancient records.
